

Since this was a side project of mine I have no official problem statement. I had considerable crypto-assets to keep track of and wanted something that would let me keep track of the total value of my portfolio, how much each asset contributed to that total and to display a financial chart for each so I could quickly cycle through them at the click of a button.