So this is clearly the hello world of bash scripting. Nothing big but it goes to show that I won't be doing repetitive tasks over and over again.

The next step would be to generalize this more and maybe pass the PEM file, EC2 instance in as parameters to the script.